DIGGING DEEPER: RED SEA RULE #1

On their first wedding anniversary, August 18, 1938, Russell and Arlene Deibler arrived in New Guinea to labor in the jungles for Christ. When the Japanese invaded the East Indies, the two were torn apart, and Russell was interned in a concentration camp where he died. Darlene was imprisoned in another camp where she suffered years of forced labor, dysentery and intestinal worms.

One day she was singled out for execution. The troops took her to a death camp and directed her toward a stark cell. These words were written on the door in chalk: Orang ini musti mati, "This person must die." The guards shoved her in the cell, and as the door slammed shut, Darlene fell on her knees to peer through the keyhole. When she saw the key make a complete revolution, she knew she was as good as dead.

As the footsteps of the guard faded, she fell backward in a cold sweat, trembling, fight off sheer terror. Just then she found herself singing a song she had learned as a child in Sunday School back in Iowa:

*Fear not, little flock, Whatever your lot;
He enters all rooms, "The doors being shut."
He never forsakes, He never is gone,
So, count on His presence, In darkness and dawn.*

("Only Believe" by Daniel Reader)

Darlene felt strong arms about her, and she knew that though her captors could lock her in, they could not lock out her wonderful Lord. She was in an impossible spot, but she was there with a God who does impossible feats. She was there in His will, and she knew that His will would never put her where His presence could not sustain her. That assurance bore her through impossible times and preserved her life despite impossible odds. (Evidence Not Seen by Darlene Deibler Rose)
